CONSTITUTION DAY

Besieged from without and assailed from within; derided as a document of the horse and buggy age; criticized as being not elastic enough to meet change and changing conditions; the foes of the Constitution are openly and insidiously trying in every way to equate its principles for theories which dazzle, but have no form or substance.

This is Constitution Day, an occasion on which we pay tribute as a nation to the organic law under which our national life is regulated and guided.

Into the Constitution is written the struggle of centuries for the establishment of certain human rights. It is the concentrated experience of the ages and not a hastily conceived or spur-of-the-moment affair. It goes back into the misty past to Rummynode when rights, for which men had fought and bled since the beginning of time, were for the first time given concrete expression and concession in the Magna Charta.

The government framework set up, was likewise, the result of lessons from history, embodying (Continued on page 8.)

Mutuals Score Notable Victory In Court Ruling

Mutual insurance companies scored a notable victory in a decision just handed down by the Supreme Court of the State and established a right for which they have been contending for many years, but until now, without success.

The decision, written by Justice Langdon and concurred in by other members of the Supreme Court, held that the trustees of the Ripon Union high school district were acting fully within their rights in taking out insurance with a company organized under the County Fire Insurance Act. The court refused to enjoin the trustees from paying an insurance premium to the mutual company from county funds.

Mutual companies are, in a sense, co-operative enterprises. A taxpayer in the Ripon "district" declared that the district, by insuring in a mutual, became a "stockholder" of the company and that the trustees, therefore, "lent the credit of the district to a corporation" in violation of the constitution.

The Supreme Court, however, ruled that taking insurance in a mutual company with limited liability does not mean pledging of credit by the political subdivision.

"Neither the letter nor the spirit of the constitution is violated" the court held.

The decision has attracted national attention. It is expected to lead to renewed activity in behalf of a bill which will permit school districts to insure with out-of-state as well as California mutual fire insurance companies, provided in this State. Such a bill was vetoed last session by Governor Merriam.

Richmond Driver Given Citation

MARTINEZ, Sept. 16.—For the first week-end in many many months, not a single motorist was arrested over the week-end in Contra Costa for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

One driver was cited for asserting reckless driving, however, by Traffic Officer Charles H. Nissen. He was Clevis Joseph Letcher, 24, of 521 Third street Richmond, who was given the citation after his car struck the rear end of a machine driven by Raymond F. Gimbal, 35, of 135 Ricardo street, Piedmont, yesterday afternoon on the Tank Farm hill highway.

Letcher must appear before Justice of the Peace E. P. Grover at San Pablo on October 1.

Part The Red Sheriff Raids Cross Plays In Local Affairs

While most of the agencies in the Richmond Community Chest are concerned with character building programs, the Red Cross devotes itself to relief, and is the largest of the agencies with such a program, according to a report made yesterday. The success of its work of mercy will depend upon the outcome of the Chest campaign, now being organized under the leadership of W. P. Dugan, campaign chairman.

The Red Cross is an international organization, interested in being constantly prepared for disaster relief, and help from day to day is provided in many ways for the welfare of our needy citizens. The report to the Community Chest Board is made by the Secretary Mrs. E. L. Hollingsworth.

The case work of the Richmond Red Cross is handled by Home Service committee and by the executive secretary, who is a registered social worker. The cases handled from July 1, 1934 to June 30, 1935, are enumerated below:

- Families of service men, Army and Navy, 7.
- Families of Veterans with war disabilities, 46.
- Families without regard to war disabilities, 15.
- Families given other assistance besides material, 82.
- Grand total of families assisted, 224.

As an indication of the types of work which this involved, we list a few of the following:

- 35 maternity cases.
- 14 pension claims.
- 20 compensation claims.
- 16 government hospital care.
- 7 other types of medical care.

MRS. SAMUEL MATHIS underwent a major operation at a local hospital recently and has been taken to her home, 1083 McLaughlin avenue to recuperate.

Strife Flares At Labor Session

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 16, UP.—Hitting between Paul Scharrenger, State secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and so-called radical elements of the seamen's union which fought to oust him, flared in labor ranks tonight.

In a formal statement on the eve of sessions of the State labor organizations, Scharrenger warned labor unions to "protect themselves against creation of Communist dictatorship on the basis of democracy."

He said there was no relation between the purposes of labor unionism and Communism. That trade unions "seek to promote the welfare and economic well-being of the workers and to overthrow the government."

Some left by autos, others were seen looting down the canyon, many without any clothes or shoes.

Shouse Lashes At Roosevelt Promise To Give Breathing Spell To Business

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16, UP.—Robert Shouse, president of the American Liberty League tonight, replying to President Roosevelt's "rebuilding" letter, merely "misled" an information from the "mad" cry of "spending and a temporary suspension of business" of business extension time.

Having a belief that President Roosevelt will be defeated in next year's election, which he changes his policies, Shouse condemned the New Deal policy by post.

IGNORED PROMISES

"The time is coming soon when the people will be called upon to vote again," he said, "and if I am any judge of public sentiment, I think that this time there will be an insistence that, as stated in the Democratic platform of 1932, 'a party platform is a covenant with the people to be faithfully kept by the party when in trusted with power and that the people are entitled to know in plain words the terms of the contract to which they are asked to subscribe.'"

Shouse accused Mr. Roosevelt of ignoring his campaign promises to run the government economically, said he forced a subversive Congress to pass one measure after another which "actually retarded" recovery and asserted that (Continued on page 8.)

Pastor Appeals To President In Long's Slaying

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16, UP.—Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, self-proclaimed head of Huey Long's "Share the Wealth" clubs, appealed to President Roosevelt tonight "for help in locating and bringing to justice the assassins of Senator Long."

"January last, our State authorities uncovered a dastardly plot to assassinate Senator Long," Smith wired the President.

"Since that time some of the leaders of this plot, namely, Towers Higginbotham, Fred Parker and Fred O'Rourke, have been placed on the Federal payroll. Does this program of financing potential assassins with government money meet with your approval?"

Smith's former Shreveport, La., Christian minister, told Mr. Roosevelt he was "head of the Share-The-Wealth Society of America, with ten million members." He served under Long as national organizer.

The three men Smith named as plotters were "identified" by a witness at Long's open court investigation last January as among those "who plotted to kill him."

HARD TO BEAT FORDHAM CRY TO GRID FOES

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(UP)—Pre-season punts and passes: Jimmy Crowley, Fordham coach, took time off to learn how to pronounce the names of some of his new players. Last year he had such tongue-twisters as Ludwinowicz and Farnusky. This year he has Narowski, Wolkowski and Wojtowicz. Sounds like a Notre Dame kind of five years ago. Crowley is optimistic. He reminded that he had defeated St. John's, Purdue, Vanderbilt and Pittsburgh. Jimmy said: "They'll all be hard to beat but so will we."

William "Lone Star" Doty, one of the prize members of Ohio State's "Pop" Warner's Fighting Indians, seems to be looking for a fight at Temple this year. Doty is a freshman coach.

Jack Sutherland, Pittsburgh coach, has a degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery. He was on the School of Dentistry staff for ten years. He is a fellow of the American College of Dentists. Sutherland has an old contract with the Panthers. He's signed for the "definite" duration which means before he can leave the university he must serve several years notice. But he is not likely to want to get rid of him.

Lieut. Gar Davidson, Army coach, says passing is going to be the big weapon this season. Bernie Bierman, Minnesota coach, thinks Ohio State will be the class of the Big Ten. Notre Dame's squad of 109 players represents 75 cities in 22 states. Illinois leads with 26. Indiana is second with 23.

HAS YARDED ATTACK

"Slip" Madigan, St. Mary's coach, has a strategy which he calls the "variety" attack. It will consist mainly of fakes, trips and shifts. Madigan has taken a page from the book of "Clipper" Smith at Santa Clara who had Stanford worried for weeks before the game over his "butterfly" defense. Smith, by the way, should have one of the sturdiest teams on the coast. He has veterans on hand for every position. Santa Clara had a freshman outfit last year that we saw wallop the varsity, and material like that won't hurt the Broncos cause.

New York is in for a noisy Columbus Day. L. S. U. team—band and all—plays Manhattan College that day. Jack Sutherland thinks Benny Friedman, once of Michigan, Southern California's "Cotton" Warlick and Frank Cardo of Notre Dame were the best three quarterbacks in history.

"Pop" Warner at Temple suggests that Eulace Peacock, the sprinter, come on for football. Peacock played halfback in a New Jersey high school before entering Temple.

CUBS HOLD TO LEAGUE LEAD; DETROIT WINS

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(UP)—The Chicago Cubs rode roughshod over the New York Giants today for their 13th straight victory and maintained their two game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League pennant race.

The Giants dropped to 4 1-2 games from the top. A crowd of 30,000 saw the Cubs blast Harry Gumbert, Giants' rookie pitcher out of the box with a six-run attack in the fourth inning and score an 8-3 victory.

The Cardinals broke their three game losing streak by defeating Brooklyn 1-0. Moore's single, a sacrifice and Frisch's single scored the only run of Munro, who pitched a five hit game.

Paul Dean, recovered from last week's illness, pitched his 15th victory and made good Brother Ditty's prediction last winter that the Dean boys would win 45 games. Ditty has won 26.

The Cincinnati Reds moved into sixth place with a 3-2 victory over the Phillies in 11 innings.

Pittsburgh posed on Boston, 5-3. Mace Brown, who relieved Gaby Bush, allowed only one hit in the last five innings and was credited with the victory.

Detroit increased its American League lead to 9 1-2 games by defeating the Boston Red Sox 5-2 while the St. Louis Browns dropped the New York Yankees, 5-2. Tommy Bridges fanned eight men in scoring his 20th victory.

Cleveland strengthened its hold on third place by defeating the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-5.

San Jose's oldest American League pitcher, allowed only three hits as the Chicago White Sox defeated Washington 9-1. Luke Appling had a perfect day, hitting a double and four singles in five times up and driving in five runs.

Legion Post To Hold Patriotic Meeting Tonight

Richmond will observe Constitution Day today with appropriate exercises.

This evening a big patriotic mass meeting will be held at the Lincoln school auditorium under the sponsorship of the Richmond Post of the American Legion. Ruel S. Crase is chairman of the evening.

Almost every Richmond lodge will attend the ceremonies in a body, it was announced.

I. M. Peckham, former United States district attorney of San Francisco and an instructor in constitutional law, will be the speaker of the evening. Peckham's address is expected to be very timely and interesting.

Parney Kinstry, commander of the Legion Post, will preside.

Townsenders To Name Delegates To Convention

Delegates to the convention to be held in Chicago October 24 to 27 will be named next Monday evening at the Townsend Club news at W. O. W. hall, according to an announcement made at last night's meeting.

Last night reports were heard of the successful dance given last Saturday evening at the hall. Reports were heard on the visit paid to Danville on Sunday evening at which time a new Townsend Club was organized.

George Black is president of the local organization.

GAELS SWING INTO ACTION FOR SEASON

SAINTE MARY'S COLLEGE, Sept. 16.—The usually energetic Moraga sun cooled its ardor over the weekend and as a result 17 Saint Mary's football candidates went through three brisk season-opening sessions in workmanlike fashion.

"No scrimmage until the middle of the week" was the order of Head Man Slip Madigan as he sent his charges through calisthenics, running down under punts, refereeing plays rehearsed in spring practice, live tackling practice, and learning blocking assignment in dummy scrimmage.

Members and spectators took out a healthy and an afternoon session Sunday were held in the gymnasium. In the first game, except Jerry Kenoski, veteran back, who clipped a tooth and cut a lip while performing for photographers Friday.

From the way the teams lined up, it appears that you'll have to call all Gael secondary men just "back" this season and let it go at that. On the first eleven, Madigan had fullback Kelly Kollege at right half, halfback Ed Hallman at quarter and quarterback Maltese at full. Left half Herb Schreiner was the only player who remained in his traditional spot.

On the second string a similar situation prevailed—halfback Floyd Maxham lined up at full, fullback Joe Cassidy at half, fullback Wally Naras at quarter, and fullback Tony Falkenstein at half.

These wholesale shakups preface a tricky new Gael offense this year but just what it will be is a mystery hidden behind the enigmatical Madigan smile. It will be a riddle-dazzle affair, he admitted, but beyond that we'll wait until the first game two weeks from now.

The Moraga mentor was pleasantly surprised by the work of Frank Shook and DeWitt Trewitt sophomore halfback and guard respectively. These two boys will not remain long on the fourth string judging by their initial performances.

Team lineups for the opening practice were:
First team: Erdelatz and Pontleton, ends; Dennerlein and Metter, tackles; Kordick and Conley, guards; Hallman quarter; Schreiner and Kellogg halves; Piez, center.

Second team: Strub and Austin, ends; Orth and Wilkin, tackles; O'Connor and O'Shea, guards; Jira, center; Morse quarter; Groux and Cassidy halves; Maxham, full; Falkenstein alternated with Cassidy at the right half position.

WOMAN'S LIFE IS SAVED BY MERRIAM EDICT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—UP—The injustice of seeing Mrs. Nellie Madison condemned to death, while other murderers get off with life imprisonment, so rankled in A. R. O'Brien, prison director, that he "lied like a gentleman" to save her grief, he said today, commenting upon Governor Frank F. Merriam's action in commuting Mrs. Madison's sentence to life imprisonment.

O'Brien, on a recent visit to Tehachapi prison, told Mrs. Madison Governor Merriam would not let her hang.

"I'm glad for the commutation. I think it's the right thing to do," he said today. "It wouldn't have been good sportsmanship for California to hang a woman for the first time in its history, while more cold-blooded murderers escape the gallows."

O'Brien said that while the prison directors were concerned over the possibility of having to erect a gallows at Tehachapi on which to hang Mrs. Madison, another murderer, Mrs. Louise Peete, was getting ready for parole.

"Those cock-eyed courts in Los Angeles and Southern California were the ones to blame for this and other examples of inconsistent justice."

"They have sent cold-blooded murderers to prison for life. Yet another court condemned Mrs. Madison to death for a crime of lesser intent."

"So I did the only thing I could—lied to Mrs. Madison to calm her grief. I'd lie again under similar circumstances."

O'Brien revealed that after his "lie," he had asked Governor Merriam to commute Mrs. Madison's sentence.

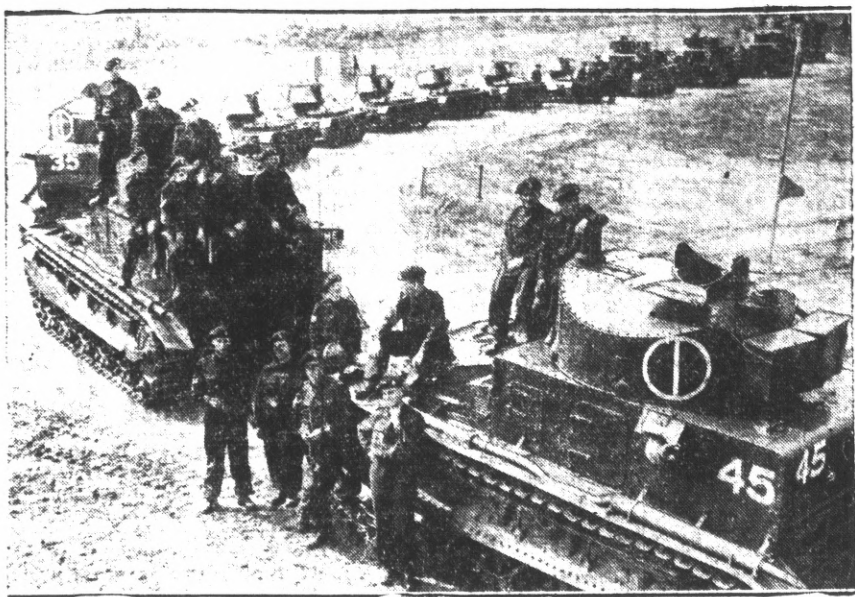

The State Supreme court learned of the commutation of Mrs. Madison's sentence just two minutes after it denied her petition for a writ of certiorari, regarded as her last chance to escape the noose through court action.

Death Penalty Is Asked For Three Slayers

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 16.—UP—Threat of death on a state prison gallows supplanted the whispered menace of a vigilante noose today as three Oakland youths went to trial for the murder of Police Chief E. G. Fish of North Sacramento.

The defendants were Alfred Paine, 26, H. G. Smith, 28, and George Wallace, 27, who were confined in Folsom Prison for safekeeping shortly after their arrest when rumblings of mob action swept Sacramento. The lynch threats here followed by only a few days a night rider raid on the Yreka, Calif., jail and lynching of C. L. Johnson, another police slayer.

The threats since have quieted, but the hanging issue was injected into the case again today when District Attorney Otis S. Babcock indicated he would ask the death penalty for the trio.

The Constitution has answered our every personal and national need since the day it was framed. It has carried us through all our troubles, material and moral, and it has never failed us, being the only document in its production to carry out its objective in its history.

The present day in voodoo, to be sure, is not new, there have been times before when it has always become apparent, when the storm was over, that the changes proposed would have been harmful and not beneficial to those who would have wrecked it.

It is therefore fitting that we as a people pause today and for that momentary document the best age does it. It is peculiarly appropriate that the men who by their efforts it should be ready to be moved for a proper reverence of the day. In fact they carried the banner of freedom and in the days of peace they are still carrying on the good work for the preservation of the Constitution, guaranteed its under provisions. When the day comes that the Constitution has no defenders, that day will mark our end as a nation and the abolition of human rights.

HELP SENT TO STRICKEN LINER MARY KINGSLEY

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 17.—UP.—The S. S. Mary Kingsley, 4,177 tons, sent an SOS from a position in Bristol channel early today.

Large vessels were asked to rush to her side to shelter her from heavy seas which threatened to capsize her.

Most of the crew was injured, the distress call said. A deck carried 20 of locomotives made the ship difficult to handle. She was shipwrecked, material and moral.

The Mary Kingsley is owned by the Elder Dempster Lines Ltd., London. A hurricane was racing in the channel and apparently was in pursuit of the liner. Coast guards at which the ship was sighted, reported the storm was the worst in many years. The admiralty warned shipping, racing for shelter, to watch for an unmarked submarine which broke away from a tug six miles north-west of Lundy island.

HELP ON WAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 UP.—Wireless messages received by Mackay Radio tonight from the S. S. Washington reported the position of the S. S. Mary Kingsley as about 50 miles west of the Scilly Islands, and 10 miles west of Lundy, England.

So far, according to the report, no steamers have reached the storm-battered vessel but the British steamer Tamarica is proceeding towards her reported position in the Atlantic at 15 knots and expects to be in a position to give assistance about 1:40 A. M. CST tomorrow.

The S. S. Jean Jodot is communicating with the stricken vessel and will speed to her aid if necessary, Mackay Radio said.

Psoriasis Is Another Skin Disease That Requires Careful Treatment

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

NOW here is an interesting order. C. M. L. writes: "Will you please write about Psoriasis of the skin? I have had Psoriasis a number of years, and the treatments I have tried have not cured it. Is there more than one kind of Psoriasis, what is the cause of it, and is there any permanent cure for it?" Psoriasis is another one of these scaly conditions of the skin in which we are in doubt as to where they come from and where they go. Only we find it increase in size and shape and are called various names, according to the size and shape they assume.

Always we see some older lesions covered with silvery white scales that stick tight to the skin and only the surface scales brush off. Surrounding these are newer pimples, gradually changing to the scaly stage and spreading from the center.

It is a disease of the outer skin, but may penetrate deeper, due to scratching and infection. The finger and toe nails may be involved, becoming milky. They break easily, crack and may crumble or be shed entirely. A new nail forms, but it is very likely to be whitish, brittle, and rough.

Inflammation Present

In rapidly developing cases, there is often severe inflammation of the outer skin which may quiet down in three or four weeks. Occasionally the patches disappear, but there usually remain some silvery white spots which show a tendency to scale off and in most cases, white scaly patches persist on the outer surface of the elbows and knees for years. They are not troublesome, unless they are on the face, arms, and abdomen commence to show.

Psoriasis gets well, but it is very prone to return without the patient's consent. Aside from the scaly patches, the most unpleasant feature is the itching. It may become almost intolerable, and as the scales are scratched off, a bloody ooze remains which gets inflamed. This often results in deep cracks and fissures around the joints and flexor surfaces.

A patient with severe psoriasis frequently develops disturbances of the stomach and of the general health. They do not sleep well, lose their appetites, and become quite emaciated. The cause is not known, but is probably due to some toxic condition. Some observers find the disease following acute attacks of old chronic tonsillar infections. It often occurs in young, robust individuals. Sometimes it seems to run in families, but we are unable to state that it is an hereditary condition.

Arsenic Often Used

Many remedies have been used, frequently with success. Arsenic in the form of Fowler's solution is probably the most acceptable treatment. The usual method is to commence with three drops, three times a day in a glass of water and increase one drop every day until thirty drops are taken daily.

When the disease commences to get better you should stop increasing the dose, but continue with that or smaller doses for quite some time. If the eyelids commence to puff up, the dose should be reduced. It is not a safe remedy to take except under the careful watching of a physician. Local applications should be used with caution, particularly in the acute stage.

A two per cent salicylic acid ointment is safe. In the chronic stages, stronger applications may be used, but care must be taken that they do not cause too much irritation. A two to twenty per cent chrysarobin ointment is a standard remedy, but must be used with caution.

Drew's ointment is not quite so irritating. It is applied at night and washed off in the morning. Ointments composed of some coal tar or mercury do not stain and are often very successful. Persistence is necessary, and under the new conception that it is the result of a toxemia all focal infections should be removed.

Revive the Flowers

The life of wilting flowers can be prolonged. Fill a pot with hot water and cut the stems from a quarter to a half inch, cutting diagonally under the hot water. Leave the flowers there until they freshen before returning them to a vase filled with fresh, cold water.

Profiles For Today

Bernard Shaw Reaches His Maturity

By TALBOT LAKE

BERNARD SHAW had a birthday last week which brings him into the eightieth year. When asked what he thought of having a birthday at such an age, he replied that it wasn't worrying him, and he did not see why it should worry reporters. This is a typical Shawian remark, and as in all such remarks, was said with that peculiar little grimace that people have interpreted in many ways.

Now that the English writer has reached maturity it may be no more than justice to remark that he has been misunderstood for a greater part of his life. This, in truth, has been due mostly to his own stubbornness in refusing kindly meant statements.

Nevertheless, some of the venom that has been let loose at Shaw certainly is not deserved. In the first place, any man who could write such plays as "Man and Superman," "Candida," "Major Barbara," and "Saint Joan" rates the privilege of being a bit short with his inquisitors, and because he took advantage of this privilege does not make it any less true.

In the second place, there is ample reason to believe that Shaw has always had a lurking inferiority complex somewhere in the back of his brain. This has evidently been overcome through the long years of effort and public appearance, but some of it must remain. That rather makes you feel kindly disposed toward the man. But, my goodness, don't tell anything like that to Bernard Shaw.

Summer Sun Clears Up An Oily Surface

By JACQUELINE HUNT

TO THE woman with an oily or a blemished skin the summer comes as a blessing. Her skin becomes smoother, clearer, and takes a better color. The woman with a naturally dry, sensitive skin, however, finds that the sun makes her face look years older at the end of the summer. That is, it will unless she works constantly to keep it soft, smooth and youthful!

If you want to keep your skin soft to the touch, firm and clear, use what the use of a good cream will do for you and keep up the habit the year around. You cannot do it, by using a number of creams, lotions and masks once or twice a month or in preparation for a special party. You must work constantly to fortify your skin against dryness and wrinkles.

One of the things that keeps some women from using creams more regularly is the confusion resulting from the names. You do not know what a certain kind of cream will do for you, or which kind to select to answer all of your needs.

A cleansing cream is obviously meant to do just that, cleanse. The lightening creams look translucent and melt immediately into an oil that is quick to take up the powder and dust on your skin and soften the fine lines that are deeply imbedded in the pores. These creams do not pretend to soften your skin or smooth out the shriveled lines.

The cleansing cream should be used for your mid-day cleansing and before you wash your face at night. Remember that creams should not take the place of soap and water in your beauty routine.

Cold cream or all-purpose cream is used for cleansing and for softening. These are usually very thick and sticky. After the skin has been thoroughly cleansed, use this same cream for massage to soften and arouse the circulation in a rough or aging skin.

The heavy, oily creams are solely for the purpose of "lubricating" or "nourishing" your dry, flaky skin. These creams do not touch and must be worked into the skin with firm, upward strokes of the fingertips. If the skin is very dry it is sometimes advisable to use the cream during the day and again at bedtime.

These rich creams supplement to a certain extent the natural oils that are secreted by the skin. As you grow older this natural supply of oil is diminished and the skin begins to age. Wind, cold weather, hot sun, and over-circulation are all contributing causes for dry, sensitive skin. But use one of these creams regularly and your skin will again look supple, moist and youthful.

There are also oily foundation creams for the woman with an extremely dry skin. These are intended to protect the skin against sun, wind and extreme cold. Use in a very thin film before you apply rouge and powder and you will be surprised at the beautifully smooth effect you will get with your make-up. These also help to conceal lines.

There are still other creams but they need not concern the dry-skinned woman.

Beauty Tips

Many practical beauty tricks can be learned from women of the screen and stage. Most important is how to powder so your skin will stay well-groomed and smooth for hours. Instead of shiny and caked with make-up, the actress uses a large clean piece of cotton for applying her powder.

It is dipped in the powder and then pressed firmly against her face and throat until her skin is covered with twice as much powder as she needs. This is left on the skin for a few minutes, then the excess is dusted off. A tiny, clean eyebrow brush removes stray hair from the lashes and brows, and a moist cloth removes that from the lips before the rest of the make-up is applied. Powder is applied just as carefully to the arms, back and every part of the body exposed.

The Medicine Cabinet

The medicine cabinet needs frequent cleaning of old medicine bottles and boxes containing powders and pills. Only the simplest, safe remedies should be held over from one cleaning to the next. Place these where they are easy to find in an emergency. See that all bottles are properly labeled, and be sure to place liniments and other medicines which might prove poisonous if taken internally on the highest shelf, out of reach of tiny hands.

Diamonds Back In Favor But Costume Jewelry Stays

By IRENE VAIL

New York—Having catered to the primitive in us by encouraging us to bedeck ourselves with costume jewelry and ornaments, designers are now coming back to favor, but thousands are agog over the news that costume jewelry remains, that it's far East in spirit, and that a lot of it is gold—in color at least.

We are also mildly interested in the return of the pearl string necklace worn, if you please, over the neck of a draped but collarless gown.

Fashion, once more preoccupies

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "When a girl meets a young man acquaintance on the street, should she stop and chat?"

ANSWER: She should nod cheerily and pass on her way, for if she has time to kill the same may not be true of the young man in question. He may be in a hurry. A lady does not want to make herself unwelcome. She assumes that his business and pretends that she is doing the same. If the young man stops her, that is an entirely different matter. She may excuse herself or remain to chat a while, as she sees fit or prefers.

QUESTION: "When guests are invited for a week-end, how long are they supposed to remain?"

ANSWER: As long as the invitation says. It should specify "come for dinner Friday at 7:00 and stay over Sunday." Or, "I shall expect you on the 2:10 Saturday and will be there to meet you." There's a 7:15 Monday morning that will bring you to work on time.

Short Cuts

To keep candles straight during the summer's heat, cover them with clear varnish. Then just wipe them off with a damp cloth from time to time to keep them clean.

A pail of cool water placed in the corner of a new painted room will help absorb a good deal of the paint odor. Change the water every two hours.

Dishes for Today

August Days Are Time for Jelly Making

By JUDITH WILSON

EACH cool day during August will probably find you in your kitchen with heaps of golden and rosy fruit ready to be converted into jars and glasses of jellies, jams and pickles. Peaches, plums, pears, melons and a few berries are the materials with which you work. Of course, you have a list of favorite recipes that you prepare year after year, but try something new occasionally—something different.

If you want to be modern, have a plan for your jam cupboard. Everyone loves jellies and jams with hot breads and pickled fruit and preserves with meats, but there are many other uses for these goodies. Plan extra jars of grape, mint, plum and currant jelly to be used as glazes for fresh and smoked meats and cake frostings, and extra jars of peach jam and blackberry jam for desserts and stuffings for baked apples.

LUNCHEONS
Jellied Veal Loaf on Lettuce with Mayonnaise
Potato Chips
Hot Biscuits Peach Preserves

Consomme with Rice
Hot Chicken Sandwiches with Spiced Peaches or Pears

Plum Preserves

Wash red plums, quarter and discard the pits. Measure. To one quart add the grated rind and pulp of two oranges, the grated rind and juice of one lemon and one pound of blanched almonds put through the food chopper. Measure the whole and add an equal amount of sugar. Put over the fire and stir until the sugar is dissolved and then cook slowly until the mixture jells. Pour into sterilized jars that is clear, deep red in color and has a delicious, unusual flavor.

Currant-Raspberry Jelly

Wash one quart each of raspberries and currants. Crush slightly and heat until the juice flows freely, then simmer slowly for ten minutes. Strain through a jelly bag, measure in a standard measuring cup, then add three-fourths cup sugar for each cup of juice. Boil rapidly until the sugar sheets from the spoon. Pour into clean, hot glasses, cool slightly and cover with melted paraffin. This gives a clear red jelly with a rich flavor.

Watermelon Pickle

Select a watermelon with a thick rind. Peel and remove nearly all of the red meat, leaving the firm white and pinkish part. Cut into long strips or cubes and cover with a brine, using one-fourth cup salt to each quart of water. Let stand overnight. Drain and cook in clear water until the rind is tender but not soft. For four pounds of watermelon rind, boil two pounds (four and one-half cups) sugar, two cups vinegar and one-fourth cup pickling spice (tied together in a piece of cheesecloth) for five minutes. Add the rind and boil until clear. Let stand in the syrup overnight. Drain out the pieces of rind and boil the syrup five minutes. Repeat this process three times. Heat thoroughly and pack in clean hot jars and seal immediately. Perfect for the relish plate.

Pear Conserves

Peel, core and dice enough pears to make four cups. Combine with one and one-third cups sugar and one-half tablespoon

MODERN WOMEN

Failing to Think About the State of the Mind Doesn't Insure Happiness

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

RECENT surveys made to ferret out the percentage of women, married and single, who are happy make very disheartening reading. After all, what makes one woman happy leaves another dissatisfied. Today's letter is from a woman who thinks it is best to live a full and busy life and not to think much about the state of mind. That's the old way—she says. But if the truth were known, I am sure there are plenty of modern women who spend little time worrying about their reactions.

"My dear Mrs. Martin: Before I start I had better tell you that I am 62 years old. You will know now that I am about to start a trade on today's manners and morals, only that isn't really the burden of my complaint. It's this—I think that the average woman of today spends too much time wondering whether she is happy—and if not, why not, and if so, why? I think we have grown much too self-centered. We think too much about ourselves, and not enough about what we do or what we want to be. I notice that you frequently comment on the surveys made by busy bodies who pry into the secret recesses of other's lives. Do you really think one learns anything by all this twaddle? In my young days I was a very busy woman and didn't have the time to ponder over so-called reactions. I did my housework and took care of my children, and didn't know what a great deal—much less have any. I think I was happy and that's what none of you moderns ever seem to think you are. Am I right or just—Old Fashioned."

How of Unhappiness
God gave women the power to think and I do not see that they should be criticized for using it. I am willing enough to admit that there are many neurotics who substitute feeling for thinking and who make a great howl about being unhappy and misunderstood. I fancy your generation produced some of the same only in those days they were the mad ones, the crazy bearers, the neglected wives, or the ladies hugging a secret sorrow. They pined and seemed not to know why, so long as pining made them interesting.

Modern women want to know why they feel thus and, if possible, to remove the cause. They don't hold to hugging sorrows to their breasts or patiently bearing crosses. They apply a sort of intelligence test to their emotions and if they find themselves below par they try to set themselves right.

Granting that some of us are given too much to self-analysis and introspection and are too busy finding out why we are not happy to really experience happiness, it seems to me that improvement on the type of woman who was too numb or too dumb to know what ailed her and to try to remedy it.

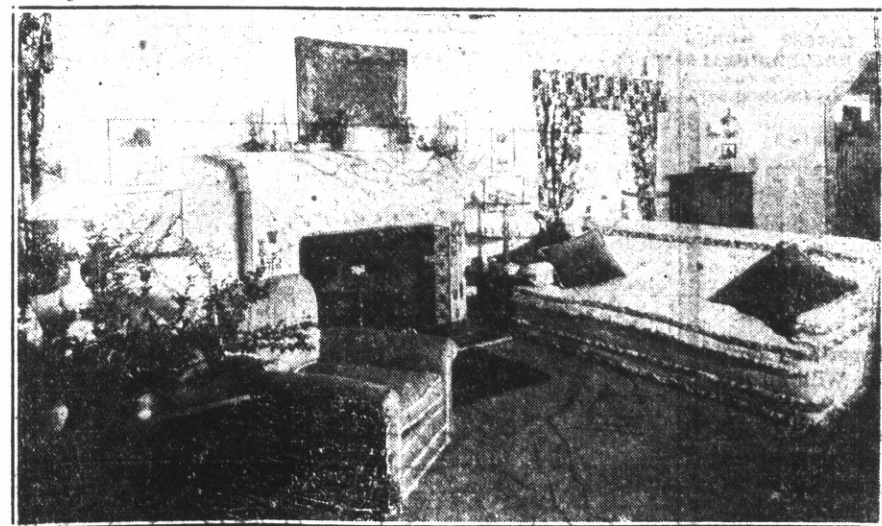

Talent Is Needed
One must have a capacity for life, a talent for happiness, in order to ever experience it. We have all known women who would be discontented and unhappy under any circumstance. They need to be pitied, for often it is because they have an intense desire for happiness. Externals alone cannot produce such a beatific state—contentment and happiness have their roots within us. Such being the case, it's natural for women who understand to probe deeper and deeper into their natures hoping to come upon its source.

Besides, it is the fashion to be introspective as well as retrospective. We are living in an age of intense curiosity about ourselves and each other. Should we survive the ordeal of surveys and investigations, public and private, it seems fairly certain that we will be wise enough to put all our recently acquired information to good use.

Such progress as women have made is the result of a better understanding of themselves. They have made blunders, but the main thing is to learn enough from these blunders to avoid making the same ones twice. That takes a lot of thinking—about oneself. It seems to indicate progress when a woman decides to do her own thinking and even prefers to make her own mistakes.

Laundering Correctly
A crocheted collar will look as good as new after laundering, if you do the washing properly. Wash in warm sudsy water and rinse in clear water. At no time in the washing rub or wring the collar. Squeeze out the water gently. Dip in thin shape. Do not hang it up to dry. Shape it while damp and pin in place to a soft towel.

Wernse to erect a wharf 20 feet in width on the east side of Point Loma, and if there were any objections from the standpoint of navigation, they should be filed by September 21.

action be taken along the lines indicated. The matter will be held in abeyance for a week during which time Councilman Peter Larson will do some investigating and report back the result at the next meeting.

Orley sanitary conditions were complained of by C. Hoffman, 2108 Pitzer avenue, who objected to chicken manure being dumped on the lot adjacent to his property.

The problem in this matter are CHV Attorney T. H. DeLap and Chief of Police R. E. Lee.

PROBETS DEFERRED
WPA projects of repairing streets and painting street signs will not get under way until after the first of October, according to the report of Councilman W. F. Huber, who also informed the council that the late section of Alameda and Central streets had been repaired so that buses could traverse the point without endangering their passengers to the point.

WANT BUS CHANGE
Councilman Navarrete is still doing his best to have bus service start in the city at 6 A. M. instead of 6:30 A. M. He will advise again next week as to progress, and that has been made.

According to the letter the sewer had been constructed along a diagonal course through the property instead of in the street, as provided by the contract.

As the sewer has been laid over five years the owner has legal right to compel the city move it. Councilman Larson was instructed to get an estimate on cost of moving the manhole.

TOM MOONEY HEARING TO OPEN TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—U. S. Thomas J. Mooney, America's most famous prisoner, tonight awaited a swiftly developing crisis in his fight for freedom from San Quentin prison.

Tomorrow afternoon in a courtroom in San Francisco's gray stone Hall of Justice his attorneys will open their "last ditch" fight for his release before a commissioner appointed by the California Supreme Court to hear arguments on his petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

TRIAL TODAY
The attorneys, Frank P. Walsh of New York, Joseph Finerty of Washington and George T. Davis of San Francisco, will argue that the evidence covered up by the State's prosecutors, resulted in Mooney's conviction with Warren K. Billings as the perpetrator of the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing, which killed 10 persons.

The courtroom where they will present their arguments is only a few blocks removed from the busy intersection of Stewart and Market streets where a time bomb "planted" in a suitcase was left on the sidewalk in the middle of a morning Preparedness Day parade.

TO PREVIEW CASE
Panic and death descended on the patriotic celebration when the internal machine exploded. Six persons died instantly, four were injured fatally and 36 lay torn and bleeding beneath the debris of a wrecked brick wall.

The celebrated case, which has been argued before every court in the land, with the exception of the California Supreme Court, and submitted to five California governors, will be reviewed in its entirety at the habeas corpus hearing.

Upon State Attorney General U. S. Webb and his staff will rest the burden of disproving Mooney's claims of perjury, of false evidence and conspiracy to conceal the fraud by Charles Pickett, district attorney of San Francisco at the time of Mooney's trial.

If the State's agents fail to disprove the soft-spoken, white-haired prisoner's allegations it becomes mandatory upon the Supreme court to order his release.

Jury Probe Of Graft Charges Is Ruled Out
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—U. S.—The county grand jury cannot legally make an investigation of alleged police graft in San Francisco, John J. O'Toole, city attorney, ruled today.

Through Robert Lincoln, foreman the jury today reinstated Mayor Angelo Rossi to appropriate $25,000 from his emergency fund so it could make the investigation.

Rossi said he was willing the appropriation be made but thought he should first check the legality of the action by reference the matter to O'Toole.

O'Toole suggested that the investigation be made by the office of District Attorney Matthew Brady.

El Cerrito Man Taken By Death
Last rites will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the Wilson & Kratzer chapel for the late William Lewis Sears, 57, who died at a local hospital yesterday. He made his home with a son, Harry Sears, 306 San Pablo avenue, El Cerrito.

LEAGUE IN BATTLE ON WAR CRISIS

steeled themselves for the inevitable war between Italy and Ethiopia, France strove to avert a League break with Italy.

France's 15th hour conciliation efforts came after a meeting of the Assembly, during which Italy's war plans were attacked by small nations. Premier Pierre Laval of France and Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy left arm in arm and conferred in a corner for nearly an hour.

DELAY ACTION
Rene St. Quentin, French member of the sub-committee of the committee of five, meantime delayed agreement upon the council's final peace proposals to Italy and Ethiopia. St. Quentin demanded that the offer be submitted to Ethiopia first; then if Emperor Haile Selassie accepts, it should be tendered to Premier Benito Mussolini.

LITTLE HOPES
France's desperate initiative is due to the fact that whatever the outcome, she has much to lose. Laval is anxious to pick an alternative from which his country will suffer the least. As long as he can retain Italian collaboration against a possible German attack, the swarthy little French Premier is Mussolini's best friend at Geneva.

St. Quentin's subcommittee maneuvering probably was based on a chance Ethiopia might reject the offer. An Italian rejection following Ethiopian refusal would be less of a shock to League prestige.

As a result of this situation the subcommittee probably will not report to the main committee until tomorrow. The technical group adjourned at 5 P. M. to 7 P. M. and it was announced the five-power committee would reconvene tomorrow.

STIRN UP ARMY
ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 16.—UP—Emperor Haile Selassie, hoping to inflame his regular army with the savage spirit of the warriors who slaughtered the Italians at Adowa 29 years ago, staged a raw meat feast at the old Imperial palace today for more than 3,000 regulars and police.

It was the first time the Gueben, or raw meat festival, had been held openly since Haile Selassie's coronation, when descriptions created an impression abroad that the Ethiopians were uncivilized.

EAT RAW MEAT
The warriors dashed up to freshly-slaughtered carcasses and with their razor-sharp knives slashed great chunks of beef from the warm flanks.

They cut these chunks into long strips, put the ends in their mouths and with their knives snipped off edible portions.

For the emperor it was a concession to the savage spirit of the warriors, which until now he has sought to discipline. Haile Selassie, himself highly-westernized and restrained, has sought to regiment the wild spirit of his people. At the risk of unpopularity, he has suppressed the Gueben, despite their favor with the warrior.

"We didn't have much money—

... and we had to go to Chicago. At first we didn't even consider the train... figured it would cost too much.

"But a friend who had traveled on air-conditioned trains advised us to call up and find out what the train fare was. We did, and we went by train.

"We got there a day faster which meant a big saving on meals...

"We rode in an air-conditioned chair car, in soft, restful seats with plenty of leg room. We kept cool and clean, though it was often blazing hot outside. "We didn't have to wait for 'rest stops'. Big, clean restrooms were always at our disposal. "And the fare we paid to Chicago was only a few dollars more than for the transportation we originally planned to use. It was worth it!"
